In an effort to reach Mrs. [redacted] who was said to be living in [redacted] Arizona, I called [redacted] the phone number given to me by Dr. Jan Lieben. The phone was answered by a man who eventually told me that his name was [redacted] his wife's name was [redacted] but her maiden name was not [redacted] and that he had only recently been assigned the above telephone number.

[redacted] directory assistance was then asked to check on a phone listing for [redacted] or [redacted]. They could find no listing for [redacted] but gave me [redacted] as being listed in the name of Mrs. [redacted]. An attempt to reach this number resulted in my being told that this number was no longer assigned to anyone.

I then called [redacted] the Rochester, N.Y., telephone for [redacted], brother of [redacted] and of [redacted] son answered the phone and sounded pleasant and intelligent. He gave me the last phone number that his family had for [redacted] address [redacted]. He stated that he was quite sure of the above information because he had personally (at age 18) called [redacted] to notify her of her mother's death and funeral (which refused to attend, and which seems to be the source of bad feeling in the [redacted] family). [redacted] said he is now 26 years old, so the phone number was 8 years old.

On the chance that [redacted] might have the correct number I called [redacted] and had a lengthy and very pleasant conversation with [redacted] husband.
Mr. [redacted]

[redacted] is an ardent and expert rug weaver, and at present is on a trip to Afghanistan in connection with her interest in rugs and other Afghanistan "trinkets". She is expected back in [redacted] about May 25 or 26, at which time RDE and I will be at MIT.

Mr. [redacted] readily agreed to a visit by RDE and me at any time which was convenient for us after our return from MIT. He teaches school, which will be finished by the early part of June, and the [redacted] have no plans to make any lengthy trips this summer. Their address is [redacted] Mr. [redacted] gave me the
